It is common for students to get feared by the writing as it takes a lot of time and research to finish a quality assignment. When a student writes good assignment in their academic career, they got a higher chance of succeeding in their universities. However, due to busy student life, it becomes stressful and challenging for them to jell up and manage their things in the simplest way. So, how can they overcome academic writing issues?

Here are 4 tips for you that you could try from today

1. Issue: Not getting enough knowledge of how to structure argumentative essays

Solution:

- Try to look for multiple essays structure that might help you in framing the argumentative essay.
- Try to make your essay in question form.
- Primarily present a single slide of argument first and then switch on to the other topic to reach up a significant conclusion.
- Always provide citations as backup proof for your writing.
- Try to make it clear for the reader to make it understand what you are expecting to deliver to them.

2. Issue: Poor or weak research skill

It is quite common in students that they may find researching a topic daunting, and might feel hesitant about how to begin their assignment. With numerous academic books, papers, and web pages available online and offline, understanding how to start research can be a challenging task to do. So, what you can do to overcome it?

Solution:

- Always make a reading list before beginning your research as all the provided research topics by the professors are framed on the syllabus.
- Try to go with the syllabus topic only. Always try to ignore mentioning irrelevant topics in your work.
- Learn how you can differentiate between unreliable and reliable sources.
- Communicate with your professor if needed and pin down points that they discussed during their lecture.
