Trunk dorsiflexion dysfunction in children with cerebral palsy. The purpose of this study was to examine the characteristics of trunk muscles in children with cerebral palsy (CP) and to investigate the relationship between trunk muscle size and function. Thirty-two children with CP and 16 typically developing children underwent the Assessment of Motor and Process Skills (AMPS) to evaluate movement quality. Trunk muscle cross-sectional area (CSA) was measured using magnetic resonance imaging. Among children with CP, the function of the lower limb was significantly correlated with that of the trunk. The
