Category:Indian folklore5 After Christmas By Jessica* It's the happiest time of the year, the festive season! The season where we get to wear bright coloured outfits, have snowball fights and generally spend time with our friends and family. And I know a lot of us will start preparing for our Christmas party and family dinners early – whether it's on the 1st of December or just on the 4th, it's more than a week now! As we are all so busy preparing, I wanted to share 5 tips that you can use for your Christmas party (or even before) to make sure that your evening is memorable and fun! 1. Decide on the theme Have you decided on your theme? If you haven't, make a decision now. What are you planning on serving and wearing? What colours? White and silver, red and white, black and red? Make your party stand out with a theme that you can all enjoy, and one that the guests will be talking about months after the party. 2. Find your suppliers Now you know what your theme is, find a supplier that will help you create your look, and serve it at your party. Whether it be a florist to arrange the flowers for the table, a caterer to provide the food for your Christmas party or a photographer to take pictures, make sure that everything is in place for you and your guests to enjoy. 3. Think about what you want to serve A Christmas party will be a party, it's not a fancy dinner. So, don't go all out with the food and 2d92ce491b
